Continuation Sheet

Continuation of 4. Note: The current summary of claimed subject matter contains more then what is claimed in each independent claim on appeal. Also, each claimed element must be set forth with reference to the specification by page and line number, and to the drawing, if any, by reference characters. That is each element of the claim should have a reference to the specification by page and line number next to it, not just a listing of cites in the specification at the end of the summary.

Continuation of 6. Note: Currently there are no headings in the augments section and there are at least two grounds of rejections being addressing the brief.
